ANOTHER AMERICAN IS HELD

Man Named Head, Superintendent of Mine, Reported Missing

Puerto Cabezas, Nicaragua, May 1—A second American employed in the mines of the Pis Pis district which was raided by Sandino troops was believed today to be a prisoner in the hands of the rebels.

Harry Johnson, a Swedish bookkeeper employed in the Luluz Mine who escaped himself during the raid and subsequently made his way here, has reported that an American named Head, the acting superintendent of the Neptune Mine, is missing.

Johnson said that the Luluz Mine was dynamited and totally wrecked by the rebels on April 27. He said that Head left here last week bound for Bluefields but had not been heard from since.

George B. Marshall of New York, assistant manager of the LaRue Mine is still believed to be in the hands of the rebels. According to the best information available he is alive and safe.

Additional marines have been landed from the U. S. warship Galveston to reinforce the detachment at this base. Immediate operations have been started against Sandino.

Three strong detachments are moving inland hoping to encircle some rebel camp in the Pis Pis district and force General Sandino's capture or surrender.

First 'Just Kids Club' Show Goes Over With Decided Bang as 1,000 Greet "Al and Pete"

By Just Kids Safety Club Editor

DIDN'T we tell you so, kids! We told you, didn't we, that Al and Pete were "that stuff," and all of you "busted" a lung singing that "Peanut" song, know what a treat you enjoyed. Really, 'twas a riotous show.

Some of you will be keenly disappointed, though, when the picture of the members of the "Just Kids Safety Club" is in an edition of The Star this week, and you aren't it. Why didn't you all come down and be "shot" with the laugh-boys, Al and Pete?

A thousand or more members of our famous "Just Kids Safety Club" jammed the Marion theater yesterday afternoon, paid their dime, ate a candy treat, and enjoyed a good, fast moving "Our Gang" comedy, a burn-'em-up news reel and last but by all means not least, Al Cameron and Pete Bontsema.

Close Harmony Hicks

"Hi Diddle Diddle" wasn't so good the first time, but the close harmony on the "cat and the fiddle" refrain the next time, were something to be remembered.

That "Peanut" song was the big feature, though. Wonder which side really won? It certainly was song with wholehearted enthusiasm, and although the harmony wasn't so noticeable, the noise was. We still think the left side won.

The "Tin Pan Parade" stunt was new to so many, and without the tin pans wasn't as effective as it might have been. But still, it was clever.

Moran and Mack might have been on the stage for a while when "I've Lost My Dog" was so woefully interpreted by the fems, and a catchy bit about an imaginary dog was put on.

"Tie All Your Troubles to the Tail of a Kite, and Let Them Fly, Fly, Fly," was rather a different type of song from the others that Al and Pete so flippantly sang.

Warms Youngsters

"Sleepy Head" closed their part of the program, and Al admonished his youthful audience before this number began to be careful about crossing the streets after the show, and also for the older boys and girls to let the smaller ones get out first.

The kids filed out in a very orderly [illegible] but with loud shouts of appreciation and a great deal of hand clapping.

Keep watching The Star, fellow members, for that wasn't the last big-time entertainment that this newspaper is going to put on for those who belong to the Club.

Just remember and keep your brightly colored buttons and obey the pledge you signed, and then you can come down to the next big event.

THE WAY OF A HEALTHFUL DAY

A morning dish of ALL-BRAN prevents constipation

Clear eyes. Fresh complexions. Buoyant spirits. They all come when the right kind of food is eaten. One of the main things that our modern diet lacks is the roughage necessary to prevent constipation, which is the cause of so much ill health.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN will furnish the bulk you need to keep well and fit.

ALL-BRAN is 100 per cent bran. It supplies roughage in effective quantities. Far better than part-bran products. At best, they can be but partially effective. ALL-BRAN is guaranteed to relieve constipation. Two tablespoonfuls daily — chronic cases, with every meal.

An appetizing, healthful cereal of unusually nutritious qualities. Serve it with milk or cream and add fruits or honey. Use it in cooking too. Sold by all grocers. Served everywhere. Made by Kellogg in Battle Creek.

Kellogg's ALL-BRAN

Appearances May Be Misleading

Appearances may be misleading—nowhere more than in furniture. Frequently the most expensive looking furniture costs the least. What is the answer? Good taste—a quality that has no price. It is a quality that marks Schaffner furniture—and explains why you can achieve the effect of great price at very moderate expense.

Brooklyn And New York To Find Going Tougher When Western Teams Open Fire

Cincinnati Reds Land in Third Place by Defeating St. Louis Cards; Browns Swamp Cleveland Indians by 10 to 3 Score

New York, May 1.—May [illegible] to be a merry one for the western teams in the National League. They will stop the business of battering each other to a standstill at the end of this week when the eastern clubs go west. Brooklyn and New York will find the going tougher and the chances are that at least two of the western outfits will linger in the front.

Considering the fact that Pete Donohue hasn't even started yet and that Carlton May and Ethan Allen have not returned to duty, the weak hitting Cincinnati Reds have been doing not [illegible] with. They beat St. Louis yesterday, 6 to 4, and took third place away from the Red Birds.

Chief Hafey of Texas outfielder crashed into a complete walk while chasing a fly and suffered a slight concussion of the brain.

The Pirates made 16 hits and mowed out the Cubs, 8 to 7.

Brooklyn's high flying Robins ran into a blizzard of New York hits and were slaughtered by a 11 to 6 score. The Giants can regain the league lead by trimming the Robins again today.

Rogers Hornsby's Boston team, which is on a terrific batting spree, [illegible] Chicago, 7 to 5.

The Yankees 8 to 4 victory over the Senators marked New York's fourth straight win and Washington's seventh consecutive defeat.

The world's champions now lead Cleveland by more than 100 points.

The St. Louis Browns handed Buckeye a terrible shellacking and swamped Cleveland 10 to 3.

Ryle Walberg of the Athletics shaded Charlie Ruffing of the Red Sox in a 1 to 0 duel.

The Detroit Tigers chased Red Faber to the showers ruining the veteran's 1928 debut, but couldn't do any business with Al Thomas and lost to the White Sox, 10 to 6.

If baseers would bear good of themselves they should learn to self-[illegible].

MAN INJURED BY FRIGHTENED FARM HORSES

S. E. Garrett Victim of Accident While Plowing Near LaRue

Victim of a runaway late yesterday afternoon on his farm east of LaRue, Simeon E. Garrett, 66, former motorman on the local street car line, is at the Dr. F. C. Smith Clinic, 240 E. Church-st, today, suffering from a severe fracture of the left leg, just above the knee, and from body bruises and exposure.

The team driven by Garrett was hitched to a rake and he had been preparing the ground for plowing when the accident occurred. It is believed the horses became frightened. They ran, dragging the rake with them and throwing Garrett to the ground in a wood near his home.

After lying in an unconscious condition for more than an hour, Garrett recovered sufficiently to drag himself within sight of the house.

Found by Wife

Seeing his prostrate form his wife ran to him and with the help of neighbors carried him to the house. He was taken from there to the local clinic in the Schaffner-Queen ambulance shortly afterward.

Late yesterday neighbors and friends of the couple were searching for the horses.

Garrett had been employed on the local car line for 27 years, residing during that time at 295 E. Fairground st. He left here about six weeks ago when he purchased the farm a mile and a half east of LaRue.

Although serious, due to his advanced age and exposure, Garrett's condition today was described as slightly improved.

Norman Thomas Scheduled to Address Five May Day Meetings in New York City

Gov. Al Smith Seeks To Counteract Spirit of Socialism with Proclamation Making Day "Army Day;" Officials' Homes Guarded by Police

New York, May 1—May Day, holiday of Socialists throughout the world, dawned in New York with every one of the city's 17,500 police on duty as 250,000 workers celebrated.

Mayor Walker's home was under guard. So were the homes of the judiciary and outstanding capitalists, as well as public buildings and churches.

Police Commissioner Warren labored parades and passing out inflammatory pamphlets.

Eleven May Day meetings were scheduled for afternoon and evening. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president was to address five of them.

Designating May 1 as Army Day, Governor Smith requested patriotic observances in all public schools.

In a letter to Police Commissioner Warren, August Gerber, secretary of the Socialist Action Committee, demanded rescinding of orders mobilizing the entire police force. Gerber denounced the preparations as "an insult to the intelligence of 250,000 workers, a reflection on their intelligence."

Unemployed men and women were to gather in Union Square for harangues. Despite the ban on parades, they planned to march to Madison Square Garden, where the communists hold their meeting.

Minister, Labor Officials Give Addresses at Local Union Organization Dinner

Erie Lodge of Carmen's Brotherhood Sponsors Program; Talk by Rev. Frank George One of Outstanding Features of Event

Addresses by Rev. Frank George, pastor of the Herman Street Christian Church, and by several prominent labor officials featured the program which followed a banquet given by Erie Lodge No. 1008, of the Brotherhood Railway Carmen of America, held in the Central Union Labor hall here last night.

The affair was pronounced as one of the most successful and most largely attended in the history of local labor organizations.

Guests from outside points included Louis Mastriana of Newark, N. J., general chairman of the Railway Carmen's union, and Charles McCloskey of Hoboken, N. J., general chairman of the Electrical Workers' Union.

Ralph K. Ramsey, secretary of the Marion Central Labor Union, gave a talk in which he urged closer cooperation among labor unions of the city. He invited the Carmen and all other Union organizations to attend an open meeting of the Central Union on May 9 when the local street railway situation will be discussed. The Central Labor is urging municipal ownership and control of local transportation.

Reverend George in his talk said that he is glad to be in position to champion the cause of labor.

Outlines Results

Through collective action, he said, workers have been able to raise their living standards, have education, the good ignorance, shorter working hours and forgotten life.

Charles McCloskey, the visitor from Hoboken, N. J., spoke in part relative regarding the union movement on the Erie railroad. He said that some time in September the general chairman of all crafts and all employes on the line will meet in Marion for a general discussion of affairs of the workers they represent.

Louis Mastriana in a talk explained that he was on his way to Chicago to attend a meeting of the railway employes' department of the American Federation of Labor and that he is working on a new agreement intended to iron out differences between the employes and company.

Acts as Toastmaster

Ray C. Patterson, president of the local Carmen's union, acted as toastmaster and was assisted by Don B. Clarke, former president who is now head of the Central Labor Union. Hayes M. Beard, local chairman of the Union, was accorded a large share of credit for the success of the meeting and for obtaining the out-of-town speakers.

Dinner was served under the direction of Wilson Jones, assisted by Dale Maynard, Walter Herron and Floyd Butt. Music was furnished by Harold Jacobs, William Guthery, Edward Thiem, Robert Cahill and Miss Maud Bebhard and Corrine Hiebich.

The next meeting of the Carmen's Union was announced for May 3 at the Central Union Labor hall.

GERMAN ACCEPTANCE OF TREATY MEANS LITTLE

Washington, May 1—German acceptance of the United States' draft treaty for the renunciation of war added little today to the gloomy prospects of the bond workers, in the opinion of informed diplomatic observers here.

The German note constitutes an unqualified acceptance of the treaty submitted by secretary of State Kellogg as a basis of negotiation between France, Great Britain, Germany, Italy and the United States but it contributes nothing to the deadlock existing between France and the United States on the scope of the proposed general treaty.

MAN INJURED BY FRIGHTENED FARM HORSES

Victim of a runaway late yesterday afternoon on his farm east of LaRue, Simeon E. Garrett, 66, former motorman on the local street car line, is at the Dr. F. C. Smith Clinic, 240 E. Church-st, today, suffering from a severe fracture of the left leg, just above the knee, and from body bruises and exposure.

The team driven by Garrett was hitched to a rake and he had been preparing the ground for plowing when the accident occurred. It is believed the horses became frightened. They ran, dragging the rake with them and throwing Garrett to the ground in a wood near his home.

After lying in an unconscious condition for more than an hour, Garrett recovered sufficiently to drag himself within sight of the house.

Found by Wife

Seeing his prostrate form his wife ran to him and with the help of neighbors carried him to the house. He was taken from there to the local clinic in the Schaffner-Queen ambulance shortly afterward.

Late yesterday neighbors and friends of the couple were searching for the horses.

Garrett had been employed on the local car line for 27 years, residing during that time at 205 E. Fairground-st. He left here about Six weeks ago when he purchased the farm a mile and a half east of LaRue.

Although serious, due to his advanced age and exposure, Garrett's condition today was described as slightly improved.

Norman Thomas Scheduled to Address Five May Day Meetings in New York City

Gov. Al Smith Seeks To Counteract Spirit of Socialism with Proclamation Making Day "Army Day;" Officials' Homes Guarded by Police

New York, May 1—May Day, holiday of Socialists throughout the world, dawned in New York with every one of the city's 17,500 police on duty as 250,000 workers celebrated.

Mayor Walker's home was under guard. So were the homes of the judiciary and outstanding capitalists, as well as public buildings and churches.

Police Commissioner Warren banned parades and passing out inflammatory pamphlets.

Eleven May Day meetings were scheduled for afternoon and evening. Norman Thomas, Socialist candidate for president was to address five of them.

Designating May 1 as Army Day, Governor Smith requested patriotic observances in all public schools.

In a letter to Police Commissioner Warren, August Gerber, secretary of the Socialist Action Committee, demanded rescinding of orders mobilizing the entire police force. Gerber denounced the preparations as "an insult to the intelligence of 250,000 workers, a reflection on their intelligence."

Unemployed men and women were to gather in Union Square for harangues. Despite the ban on parades, they planned to march to Madison Square Garden, where the communists hold their meeting.

EYES OF NATION ON CALIFORNIA TODAY

Primary Assumes National Significance in Democratic Ranks

San Francisco, May 1—The eyes of the nation were on California today as her citizens trekked to the polls to record their preference for president.

The Republicans are agreed on Herbert Hoover, but today's primary vote will serve as an official indorsement of the delegation pledged to support him at Kansas City.

It is within the Democratic ranks that the primary assumes national significance. California Democracy is divided among three leading candidates for the nomination.

The Democratic issue in California is sharply defined upon the rival claims of Gov. Alfred E. Smith of New York, Senator James A. Reed of Missouri and Senator Thomas J. Walsh of Montana, for convention support.

Outside Money Lowers Call Loan Rate

MOTORS READY TO TAKE LEAD

Larger Output and Reported Increase in Dividends Sends Up Stocks

BY W. S. COUSINS
I. N. S. Financial Editor

New York, May 1—Money for stock market purposes flowed in in large volume from the outside banking points today as the call loan rate declined to 5 1-2 per cent, with offerings reported at 5 per cent.

The motor stocks were ready to supplant the oils as the leaders of the forward movement in prices. After a brief reactionary period, caused by profit taking, a rally was started.

Larger outputs from the factories of the Hudson, Chrysler, General Motors Corporation and other well known manufacturers, with the prospect of higher dividend rates on motors stocks before the end of the year, was the principal stimulus behind the broad demand for these stocks today. Hudson's new four point rise brought the stock well above 90, and General Motors jumped through to 191 1-2. Mack Trucks, Studebaker and Chrysler were well bought.

Despite the moderate shrinkage in prices of steel products the stocks of the independent steel companies were in good demand today. Resumption of the forward movement in Otis Steel was seen in the advance of that stock to a new high at close to 20, and Central Alloy Steel topped its best previous price record when the stock sold at 36 1-2. United States Steel, Crucible Youngstown and Steel Foundries were inactive but steady.

The move in the oil stocks met persistent selling as they ran advanced. Government reports showed a considerable increase in crude and refined oil supplies in storage on March 31, though this is not unusual at this time of year, on the threshold of the largest consuming season. Standard Oil of New York returned to 37 for a two point loss from the high of the week, and Atlantic Refining lost three points in persistent selling.

Cotton

New York, May 1—A further advance of from 81 to about 82 occurred at the opening of the cotton market here today. May sold at 22.00 up 38; July 21.75, up 36; October 21.50, up 20; December 21.32, up 17 and January 21.25, up 19.

Coffee Market

New York, May 1—Steadiness marked the opening of the raw coffee futures market here today. Initial quotations displayed net gains of four to five points. May sold at 14.55, up 05; July 14.55, up 05; September 14.51 up 01, and March 13.90, up 05.

Why does a man think a baby has to be "gonnered," when it is something wrong inside of it that makes it cry?

BANK CLEARINGS FOR MONDAY TOTAL $90,754

Local bank clearances for Monday were $90,754.07 or approximately $30,000 less than last Monday, when the clearances totaled $121,349.07.

Today in Marion Markets

Groceries, Produce, Meats, Grain, Livestock

Strawberries were scarce today, only a few being on the local market. They were of unusually good quality, however, and were selling at 50 cents a quart, an advance of 10 and 15 cents over the price of last week. Continued rains throughout the South, is given by dealers as the cause of the shortage. Many of the fields, according to reports, are covered with water. A continued shortage with an accompanying advance in prices is looked for by dealers.

New potatoes showed a sharp advance today when they were quoted at two pounds for 25 cents. The advance is explained by dealers who say the stock is larger and of much better quality than that which has been selling at four pounds for 25 cents. Old potatoes were being offered today at from 40 to 50 cents a peck.

Leaf lettuce cracked the peck price of the season today when a price of 20 cents a pound straight was quoted. A shortage in supply is given by dealers as the reason for the advance. Dandelion was finding a ready market today at 10 cents a pound. Homegrown rhubarb was plentiful and selling at 10 cents a pound.

South American white grapes continue to sell at 50 cents a pound. The supply is not large and dealers report the sales as fair. Bananas continue plentiful and dealers report heavy sales at from three to five pounds for 25 cents. Oranges are holding at from 50 to 80 cents a dozen and lemons at 40 cents.

Retail meat prices were quoted as steady today with buying slightly above normal.

TODAY'S REVIEW OF YESTERDAY'S MARKET

Chicago, May 1—With the grain pit of the Chicago Board of rade roaring like the crowd at a football game, wheat soared to new highs yesterday. The May futures old at $1.71½ according to the Herald and Examiner.

It was a day of mad excitement—the wildest on the floor of the exchange since the Cutten $2 wheat mark in 1924. Corn shot upward 4 cents, with shorts scrambling to cover. A Board of Trade membership sold for $17,500, the highest price for all time.

When the big gong rang to mark the close of the session wheat showed an advance over the day of 3 to 3⅝; corn was up 1 to 1⅝; oats were ½ lower to 1¼ higher; rye was up ½ to 2.

Commission houses and many professional traders had enjoyed the taking of profits and millions of bushels of long wheat were poured into the pit. The market absorbed the liquidation like a desert sucking up a pail of water and seemed as thirsty as ever for more.

The basis for the advice to take profits was the fact that today private reports concerning the condition of the Winter wheat crop, to which enormous damage has been done, will be issued. It was assumed by many that the advance of nearly 30 cents in the price of wheat during the last three weeks might have discounted the misery.

The private reports are in the nature of a forecast of the government crop report which will be issued next week. But these private reports will be extremely bullish goes without saying. The idea seemed to prevail, however that there might be a reaction when the anticipated news came out.

Corn, after early pounding, started up with a speed equal to wheat. The market looked as if it had really got under way and might rush upward with a rapidity as startling as the leading grain has been displaying.

Big longs in wheat have been big shorts in corn. They had but all fear of the possibility of corn advancing in a really big way. Yesterday's stark rather took their breath away, but it was not enough to convince determined shorts that the market will go on up.

It is this attitude that gives corn such great underlying strength. The advance in the May future was impressive. It made the likelihood of big deliveries on May contracts today seem less probable than heretofore.

The trade, which may have forgotten how corn took the bit in its teeth the first of last May and started upward for an advance of about 50 cents, now suddenly realize today that the situation may become as tight again this year.

After the close the opinion among a good many professionals was uncertain. It seemed as if most of them had sold on both wheat and corn, and hoped for a break to give them a chance to buy again. It is this condition, assuming that it is correctly analyzed, that makes the situation appear so strong.

WISELY, for the graduation gift you will select a good watch. That has always been the favored gift for graduation.

But in selecting this watch you should give much thought to style, for the person to receive it is young.

And it is here that you may be somewhat perplexed. What is the style in watches?

For young men, the trend is decidedly away from the round watch.

The woman's preference is for the rectangular wristlet. For maximum service from a watch of this shape, it should be of the Gruen Cartouche type of construction.

We urge your inspection of our large stock of Gruen Guild Watches, and welcome the opportunity to explain their superiorities.

Favorable Weather Speeds Up Landscaping Work at Harding Memorial Grounds

More Than 100 of the 500 Trees To Be Planted Have Arrived; Work in Charge of Monroe, Mich., Firm; Plans Outlined

With the coming of milder weather, planting of trees and shrubs at the Harding Memorial site is progressing more rapidly. More than 100 of the 500 trees to be planted in the general landscaping scheme have arrived and are being planted under the supervision of George N. Hirst, of the Greenins Nursery at Monroe, Mich.

The contract for planting of the trees and shrubs was awarded the Greenins Co., by Albert D. Taylor, landscape architect of Toledo, who has the contract for general landscaping.

No flower beds will grace the lawns. The nearest approach to flower beds will be two islands, 15 feet long and 12 feet wide, to extend from the paved court in front of the memorial toward Delaware-av. The islands will be surrounded by concrete pavement and each will contain 45 English Yew trees and a ground covering of myrtle.

In Five Sections

The trees and shrubs will be planted in five sections and will be arraigned to give a mass effect. Four of the sections will be arranged at each corner of the memorial while the fifth will cover that section of the site between the memorial and the asphalt road connecting Delaware-av with Vernon Heights-blvd.

A border of American elms will line the walks leading from Delaware-av to the memorial, while included in the various groups of trees will be English oak, red oak, tulip trees, red maples, Ohio buckeye, Norway spruce, Schwedler Norway maples cucumber trees and Red Norway pine.

The huge weeping willow tree brought to this city from New York state to adorn the interior of the memorial, has been planted about seven feet from the graves of President and Mrs. Harding, while large boxes to be filled with vines and other plants and which will rest on the ledge inside the memorial, high above the ground, are being made.

Corns, bunions, callouses, flat feet, fallen arches, weak feet, crooked toes, and stretched ligaments are not natural to normal feet, and will disappear through corrective treatment and adjustment by my system.

SAYS LIQUOR SEARCH OF HOME NOT LEGAL

Unique Defense Made for Man in Hearing in Municipal Court

Basing his defense on the grounds that the search warrant had specified a day-time search and was made illegal by a search at night and that the whisky found at the home was that prescribed by a physician, L. E. Myers, attorney for John Cowgill, N. State st, who was arrested early last month on an illegal possession charge, fought for his client in Municipal Court yesterday afternoon.

A motion to dismiss the charge was overruled by Municipal Judge William R. Martin however, who contended although the search warrant had been served at night, it did not affect the legality of the document. The case was continued until Wednesday afternoon on a motion of Attorney Myers who told the court he had in a safe to secure an important paper.

Cowgill was arrested on April 3 when Captain of Police Ira Shrock and a member of the state prohibition force reported finding a gallon jar nearly half full of corn whisky in the kitchen of the Cowgill home. He posted bond when arraigned in Municipal Court and the case has been continued from time to time until today.

KOEHL SNEAKS OFF, TAKES SOLO FLIGHT

German Flier Leaves Pals Abed as He Views City from Sky

tomorrow to receive congratulations of President Coolidge. They will return to New York by train Thursday morning.

Smiling like a happy boy, Captain Koehl returned to the fliers' suite at the Ritz-Carlton from the flying field at 9:00 a. m. and rejoined the baron and Fitzmaurice. "Fitz," as New York has learned to call the slim Irishman, was delighted by the news from Dublin that his request for a month's leave of absence has been granted.

The baron still was under the spell of New York's tumultuous reception when he was getting shaved this morning. He told Charles H. Ritz, a barber at the hotel, that "they can do things like it only in America." The baron, who has the reputation of being a liberal tipper, sought to give the barber a tip but the latter held up a politely firm hand in refusal.

Baron's Anniversary

It was the baron's thirty-sixth birthday anniversary, and by radio from Berlin he received congratulations from his mother, the Baroness Von Hunefeld. A white birthday cake a foot and a half across and marked with a single big candle was brought into the fliers' suite.

The fliers were carefully guarded against any radical demonstrations in connection with May Day. The bomb squad assigned four picked men to join the police guard protecting the German-Irish trio.

Shortly before noon the three fliers, accompanied by two other famous fliers, Bernt Balchen and "Duke" Schiller, were taken to Park Row where they visited newspaper offices. Stenographers, clerks, printers and other help deserted their posts and rushed pell mell to vantage points to gain a glimpse of "Fitz," Captain Koehl and the baron. The appearances of the fliers everywhere caused repeated outbursts of cheering.

were about purchasing the oil from Blackmer and the Blackmer interests.

Price Agreed Upon

Sinclair said a quantity of oil to be bought was fixed first at 50,000,000 barrels but later increased to 55,000,000 barrels.

The price of $1.55 a barrel was finally agreed upon but under the final contract, it was paid to the Continental Trading Co. which in turn purchased the oil from Humphreys for $1.50. This profit was used to create the Continental Trading Company's Liberty Bond fund, in which Sinclair, Stewart, Blackmer and O'Neil participated.

Sinclair insisted that Blackmer lost a claim to the Humphreys oil and that Blackmer forced him to buy his share of Humphreys oil from the Coal operator. Sinclair said he was satisfied with the $1.55 price.

Daily Proverb—"He that you seat upon your shoulder will often try to get upon your head."

A Washington wire says that it is the belief down there that congress will adjourn May 19. Some stories read almost too good to be true.

Parisian dressmakers have thrown up their hands and bowed to the determination of the women folks to retain the short skirt, and thus the 1,957 varieties will continue to be on display.

Thea Rasche, the foremost woman flier of Germany, is enroute to New York, pursuant to her plan to make a solo, non-stop flight back to Germany in an American machine. There is this to be said for her project; Lindbergh has established the fact that such a plan has its advantages, and his flight is the only precedent extant.

When Lindbergh field at San Diego is dedicated, August 16, it is planned to put 325 aeroplanes, the greatest number ever assembled in America, into the air at one time. It's just possible that we here in America have been doing more in the way of the development of an air service than is generally assumed.

According to Stanley Baldwin, "you do not go into politics for what you can get, you go there for what you can give and do." What a lot those poor, benighted Britons have yet to learn about politics!

Jesse L. Lasky says "we need some one who will bring to the screen what Shakespeare brought to the drama of his time." As there has been but one figure in many centuries measuring up to that requirement, we can't help feeling that the screen will have to muddle along for some time to come before the thing it needs is accorded.

A writer says that in Britain, the national mind is concerned mainly with politics, but that in the United States it is concerned mainly with business, from which we take it that he has never rubbered around to any extent over here during the course of a presidential campaign.

Following the precedent set by the local banks and building and loan associations, Marion merchants will begin observing a Wednesday half-holiday season and continue the plan until the coming fall. There are times when regret comes to us that we didn't go in for finance or commercialism instead of devoting our energies to the spreading of joy and sunshine in paragraphs.

The $100,000 silver wedding anniversary dinner given by an American couple over in Paris at which the guests were given jeweled favors is said to have amazed Parisians, but the top-notch degree of amazement will be that experienced by Americans visiting the French capital in the future over the raised prices as the result of the display manifested at the feast.

A Hungarian automobile manufacturer has asked his government to approve his plan to present to Lord Rothermere, the British publisher, for the latter's agitation for the revision of the Treaty of Trianon and the restoration to Hungary of the territories in Czecho-Slovakia, Jugo-Slavia and Roumania inhabited by Hungarian minorities, a $200,000 automobile with a chassis of pure silver and a body covered with hammered gold. Just imagine one as unpretentious as an editor being happy in a vehicle so ostentatious as that!

He Has Talked to Millions.

Dr. S. Parkes Cadman, pastor of the Central Congregational church of Brooklyn and easily one of the foremost platform speakers of America, will appear at the Star auditorium Wednesday evening as the final number of the exceptionally fine lecture course which the people of our city have been permitted to enjoy through the splendid enterprise of the senior class of Harding high school.

In addition to his pulpit work in Greater New York which has extended over a period of thirty years, Dr. Cadman, through the press and by the radio, has addressed literally millions of people, and it is safe to say that, ranking with the most widely-known preachers of today, he is probably the best-known of all the pulpit orators of the land. Pastor, preacher, theologian, scholar, student of world affairs—he is a gifted writer as well, some of his highest achievements being in the realm of literature.

We have not always been able to get our-[illegible] into sympathy with some of Dr. Cadman's [illegible]; we can not follow him in his esteem for [illegible] one of the great church organizations [illegible] which he is very prominently connected. But our esteem for the man himself, for his high intellectual powers, for his scholarly attainments, for the forcefulness of his character, is indeed great, and we have no hesitation in [illegible] that those who are in position to hear [illegible] Wednesday evening and do not avail themselves of this opportunity, will deprive themselves of a real treat. It is not often that our [illegible] has such an opportunity brought

"We" Make Their Last Flight.

"We" finished their last flight, Monday, when Colonel Charles A. Lindbergh piloted "The Spirit of St. Louis" from the Mound City to Washington that the mechanical part of the world-famed combination might be housed and become an exhibit treasured beyond all price in the Smithsonian Institution.

In applying for a renewal of his transport license a few days ago, Colonel Lindbergh declared that he had spent 2,520 hours in the air, had made 7,800 flights and carried over 7,000 passengers. At the same time it became known that he has flown over 200,000 miles.

True, all of this wonderful record was not made with "The Spirit of St. Louis," but the really outstanding feats of it, the feats which brought him undying fame, were, and there is a further record made by the two—that of accomplishing every great feat they attempted, reaching their destination, landing safely and, save in the case of the arrival in Mexico City a couple of hours behind the figured schedule, on time.

The more one studies the wonderful record of the Lone Eagle, the more amazing it appears. One can hardly do other than figure that Colonel Lindbergh has a special gift not possessed by many aviators—the gift of direction, which we suggested at the time in explanation of the wonderful accuracy of his course when he blazed the path across the North Atlantic—and in addition to that the ability to get into perfect sympathy with the working of the machine he pilots.

In hardly any other way can we explain the records as a result of which "We" hold a place in the achievements of aviation all their own.

Awful Penalty of High Heels.

It is possible that Dr. Charles Mayo, the great surgeon of Rochester, Minnesota, has administered a blow to high heels which will cause the girls—we mean all the girls from fifteen to fifty—to return to sensible footwear.

Much has been said in a condemnatory way of high heels and their ill effects upon those who wear them, but possibly no previous utterance has come from so noted an authority or so dire a penalty for wearing them been pointed out as that held out in his utterance.

The doctor, who is at present enjoying a vacation out in Los Angeles, said in an interview Saturday:

"Ladies' legs are really an interesting study nowadays. They're losing their calves. Why, these high-heeled shoes they're wearing are changing completely the shape of their legs.

"You know, after watching them walking on their high heels, I made an experiment some time ago. I took several thick cork blocks and strapped them under my own heels and tried walking on them like the ladies do.

"And I found that it made my calves absolutely useless. In other words, the ladies, by using high-heeled shoes, are gradually atrophying their calves. And you can see for yourself what it's doing to their legs.

"They ride in automobiles too much; so, not walking, they get shorter. And because they're getting shorter, they're wearing higher heels so that they can walk beside their men."

Of course, the high heels have the effect of making a woman's feet look smaller and the effect of increased height, but what woman in this day and age of the near abandonment of the skirt, wants to accomplish these effects at the awful price pointed out by the noted Rochester surgeon?

Spindle legs devoid of the slightest graceful contours! Why the very thought is shocking!

"There are now a large number of people in the world," says Mrs. Carrie Chapman Catt, "who have become civilized enough to act civilized." As a practical woman, Carrie, what more can you possibly ask than that?

To Nungesser, Coli and Lindbergh,

A monument of unquestioned art is to be unveiled by Ambassador Myron T. Herrick at Le Bourget field, a week from today, in honor of Nungesser, Coli and Lindbergh, the gift to France of Robert Jackson, of Concord, New Hampshire.

The pedestal of the monument, which is thirteen feet high, is surmounted by a seven foot figure of a nude woman with a veil flung back loosely from her shoulders allegorically representing "the conquest of the air," bears the inscription on its base—"Honor to Those Who Attempted; to Him Who Succeeded."

Unlike many pieces of statuary to be found on monuments in this country, that about to be unveiled at Le Bourget field was neither designed nor executed to meet the requirements of time. It is the work of the late Gustave Michel, of France, who exhibited it in the Grand salon of 1913 and was purchased from his widow by the donor.

And unlike some monuments erected over in France in recent years, this to be unveiled at Le Bourget next Tuesday will not be an offense to the artistic sense of the French, and even if it were they are estopped from critizing it as of crude foreign design, as it is a home product.

Vagrant Verse.

PERFECT BALANCE.

Sorrow and pleasure
Drop on the pans,
Delicate measure
Of delicate Man's

Gay-tinted blisses,
Heavy head fears,
Laughter and kisses,
Bitter-shed tears.

Joys in the right pan,
Stories of any Man
Wisely bereft

Of sense as he sleers
In ignorance's clasp
Unwise that one creeps
On catch-as to grasp

The hand of the slowing
And fast rotting scale . . . .
Clutches, and Man growing
Suddenly pale.

Veins harden and chill,
And coward he here,
The pointer hangs still
Steady at zero.

Chilldren Enjoy "Health" Day.

BY ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.

Every Saturday during the month of May there are picnic parties in Central park, New York City. Not only is the first of the month May day, but almost every other day is May day.

Living as I do at one of the entrances of this great park, I have seen so many "Queens of the May" and so many "Kings" during these years that I feel almost a part of royalty myself. As a matter of fact, these little folks are enthroned in our hearts and their welfare means more to us than the fate of nations.

This is the fifth birthday of "National Child Health" day. The American Child Health association never relaxes its vigilance. Its motto is, "The Health of the Child is the Strength of the Nation." The association goes forward in its patriotic endeavors.

As I view it, every child has a right to be born in a decent home. Every child has a right to be given wholesome and nourishing food. Every child has a right to medical and dental supervision and the correction of physical defects if any are found.

With hygienic surroundings, proper food, early discovery and removal of physical disabilities—with these fundamentals, the child will have health. That child will contribute to the strength of the nation. A nation builded on this rock can not fail.

The outdoor life is essential to the welfare of young and old. May day exemplifies the sort of day every day should be in the life of the child. Games, exercise, fresh air, laughing, singing all in God's sunlight. This is the formula that will solve most of the problems of childhood.

Wouldn't it solve most of the problems of adult life?

One time the Master said: "Whosoever shall not receive the kingdom of God as a little child, he shall not enter therein."

We will let the theologians apply these words to our spiritual lives. But we can make out for ourselves what they mean as applied to our physical lives.

How can we have health, vigor, happiness, clear minds and the joy of living unless we accept life as a little child? Unless we play, walk and run in the open, breathe fresh air, laugh and sing and enjoy God's sunlight—unless we accept life in the spirit of a little child, we miss the fullness of the earthly kingdom of God. I doubt, too, if we will be prepared to enter fully into the joys of the spiritual kingdom.

But, however we grown-ups may order our own lives, we have no right to dwarf or distort the life of a little child. That youngster has certain vested rights and it is our duty to see that they are accorded him.

What sort of man or woman a child will become depends to a great extent upon the eating habits formed in early life. I beg of you to have proper instruction given in this matter. If you are not competent to teach this vital subject, find somebody who can.

Growth, strength of heart, firmness of flesh and muscle, solidity of teeth and bones, richness of blood, clearness of skin, quality of brain cells, mental and physical alertness—all of these are determined by the food and the eating habits. Unless your child is properly trained therein, you have failed in your duty.

Let us make this "National Child Health" day the beginning of a real drive for the health and well-being of every child in the Nation.

ANSWERS TO HEALTH QUERIES.

D. R. Q.—What can be done for rheumatism and stiffness in the knees? There is a nervous feeling in the ankles.

Dr. Copeland will answer for readers of this paper questions on medicinal, hygiene and sanitation subjects that are of general interest. Where the subject of a letter is such that it can not be published in this column, Dr. Copeland will when the question is a proper one, write you personally if a self-addressed, stamped envelope is enclosed. Editorial Opinion.

THE PATHS OF TRAGEDY.

Nature's tragedies challenge the tragedies of humankind. Just now Nature appears bent upon impressing realization of the force of her awful powers. Death, ruin, starvation, have descended upon wide areas of earth on the wings of storm and flood, in the shuddering horrors of the earthquake, in the black shadow of myriad destroying famine.

Was it the blood of slaughtered martyrs that the other day cried out from the drenched soil of Smyrna, invoking the fate which overtook that sanguined city? Is it that the voice which is summoning elemental wrath to the Balkans, to Greece, to turbulent South and Central American cities? Or is it just the time-old habit of an inexorable, dispassionate force, cruel, capricious and incomprehensible—the ruthless Terra, born of Chaos and old Night?

Who shall say? And man keeps pace with the evil and cruel exemplification of this force through bloody, frenzied imitations!

The World war already has become a dim memory to the mass of mankind. Hate and dreams of colossal murder lurk today in the thought of millions of human creatures. At present China holds the center of the stage in this stupendous drama that is so fecund with the germs of world disorders. Thousands of its people are being slaughtered by other thousands of the same blood; and accompanying the battle lines and the baleful brigandage spawned by internecine war. Famine walks, gloating over millions of dead and dying creatures, women, little children—youth, maturity and age.

White men and women also are dying in this maelstrom of yellow, insane wrath, and the pale nations of the West are powerless to call down the curtain on the hellish scenes enacting in the ancient Asian land. They can not, because the white race bled themselves to exhaustion on the fields of France and Flanders a brief decade ago—they set an example for the yellow, brown and black races to follow; and they did it in the name of God and country!

Why blame Nature for storm and quake, for drought and flood, for convulsion and contagion, while men are born eager to tear at each others throats to the death? And all for a hundred of dust, the trumpery of objective sovereignty, or because a national sensibility has been wounded!—Cincinnati Enquirer.

WHEELS AND MORE WHEELS.

The world is wheeling forward on to its destiny, with America leading, far in the van.

In this country 23,127,315 motor vehicles are registered, one vehicle for every five and a fraction persons. It is no idle dream that in a short period of time the manufacturers will have provided a machine for every family in this country.

America literally is on wheels—laborer and millionaire roll to toil or pleasure, to wedding feast or funeral rite on resilient tires; the war horse has passed and the modern chariot has taken his place; even the deserts and jungles have been invaded by the ever-encroaching motor.

Near 4,000,000 trucks and tractors keep company with our 20,000,000 pleasure cars, and this means that there is one passenger car for every six Americans.

And where will this end, or will it end, or should we wish it to end? What is the "saturation" point in automobile production? Who knows? Manufacturers have been talking about it for years and never have found it. Possibly it is looking somewhere in the vicinity of the potentialities of aircraft possibilities. In face of the swift development in the field of air transportation one might hazard almost any guess. But a heavens filled with airmavies must have its drawbacks. Some careless aviator is bound sometimes to drop a monkey-wrench or something on the unsuspecting pedestrian still destined, or doomed, to go hither and yon on the pedal transporters furnished him by Mother Nature.—Cincinnati Enquirer.

HOLLAND TUNNEL TRAFFIC FIGURES.

In a report by the late Clifford M. Holland in 1920 he calculated that 15,000,000 vehicles would use his Hudson river tunnel in the first year of operation. That estimate was considered conservative at the time. Major John A. Bensel, one of the advisory engineers, believed that it would be a capacity tunnel from the opening. But only in the two weeks in November when sightseers jammed the tubes has there been a capacity use.

During the four normal months the tunnel has been in operation the number of vehicles using it has been 2,230,745, and the revenue from tolls $1,248,264.73. These figures would mean for a full twelvemonth a total of 6,670,235 vehicles, with a revenue of $3,744,791.19.

The figures for the first four months and the deductions from them were prepared by the New Jersey Interstate Bridge and Tunnel commission. What may not have been taken fully into account is the probably heavier pleasure-car traffic in the summer months. In March this classification began to make a better showing.—New York Times.

The North Star Altar.

BY GARRETT P. [illegible].

Naked-eye acquaintance with the stars is the beginning of astronomy. [illegible] with the stars begins with [illegible] star—the cynosure of the [illegible] fugitive. I have a suggestion [illegible] and "park" astronomer—who [illegible] glad to believe are increasing [illegible] tion is that they always point [illegible] star to their clients, and a [illegible] stellations also. If they cha[illegible] extra for such service, the fee [illegible] earned, and well paid, too.

Many thousands would be [illegible] to learn the stars if only they could [illegible] the preliminary personal guidance [illegible] almost essential, for relatively [illegible] the trouble to work out this k[illegible] the aid of books and charts.

There is a peculiar institution [illegible] City, in the shadows north of the [illegible] of Natural History, at the western [illegible] tral park. It bears the romantic [illegible] "North Star Altar." There is no [illegible], except in the mind. The candles [illegible] inary altar are outdoor telescopes, [illegible] are distant stars. They rays which [illegible] centrate in the eyes of the [illegible] worshippers are instinct with a [illegible] ration than that which thrilled [illegible] Egyptian priests, who from the da[illegible] a mysterious subterranean chamber [illegible] neath the Great pyramid, watched [illegible] star" of their day through a "stone [illegible] tube," piercing for hundreds of fe[illegible] masonry of the mighty pile. Mr. [illegible] lds volunteer aids at the New York [illegible] are the priests of a higher cult than [illegible] of the Nile knew, and yet those o[illegible] were perhaps more scientific than [illegible] were aware of being. Rejecting their [illegible] and zoddesses, we can yet find something [illegible] that they barred, for one can not [illegible] the stars and remain in ignorance.

I wish every city and every village had a "North Star Altar." That, together with such a guide as Leon Barritt's "Monthly Evening Sky Map," would make astronomers of us all—at least the beginnings of astronomers. Why, in heaven's name, should so many millions of intelligent, educated people remain totally ignorant of the stars, never recognizing a single one, though the names of hundreds have been borned in temples of history and of legend for thousands of years?

With the swift progress of modern astronomy the names of many of the great stars like Betelgeuse, Spica, Antares, Algol, Sirius, Capella have become as individual in significance and as important in the story of the march of human events as those of great leaders, great cities, great concentrations of power. They are in plain view; they are fascinating to the eye and the imagination—yet multitudes of people never look at them and notice them individually no more than they notice the sparks from a locomotive. Is it, as Emerson suggests, a result of too great familiarity?

"If the stars should appear one night in a thousand years, how would men believe and adore and preserve for many generations the remembrance of the city of God that had been shown!"

But those who know the stars find no dullness of interest, because they are always there. A great capital is never dull.—Copyright, 1928, International Feature Service, Inc.

New York Day by Day.

BY O. O. McINTYRE.

New York, May 1—There is no place where summer is so welcome in New York as the East Side. Slum dwellers, housed in for the winter, may now lean out their windows, and old men and women seep out to front stoops. The melting pot bubbles.

Children "sewed in" their winter clothes kick off their shoes and stockings and run shouting through the streets in loin cloths. The ancient barrel organ men, who disappear like flies at the first chill, are back again with long forgotten Broadway tunes.

Warm weather brings a spirit of the carnival to the Ghetto. Sidewalks are dotted with little soap box stands dispensing penny colored drinks—red, green, yellow and pink. Portable ice-cream carts go through the teeming thoroughfares ding-donging hand bells.

Soon the fire-escapes will be ballooned with bedding for the East Side sleepers to swelter through the long sultry nights. Pathetic little flower pots decorate the window sills. Pavements are chalked off for popular hop-scotch games.

Ice-cream parlors—so popular with East Side girls and their beaux—have been refurbished, mirrors soaped with fancy flowers and covered with fly netting. Aproned housewives go bareheaded through the street to their push-cart shopping.

Over on the Bowery the bread line has almost vanished, and that gaunt, drab crowd that clots in front of the rescue missions for hot coffee and a flop has spread to the grassy softness and star-lit beauty of the public parks.

Glum patrons of twenty-five-cent lodging houses no longer sit at upstairs office windows—puffing silently at pipes and staring. They, too, are occupying benches in the public square. The cellar coal and kindling shops have changed their signs to "Ice." Summer has arrived on the East Side.

In tenement districts one finds more tempting food displayed than in luxurious sections. In Ghetto streets, for instance, there are windows filled with picalilli and chow-chow, fruit pies with heavy brown crusts, pails of rich golden applebutter, pickled beets mixed with red and green peppers, sugar cookies with jam hearts and sprinkled with cinnamon and cloves, ginger bread with snarls of white frosting and candied yams flecked with citron. In the aristocratic sections the delicatessen windows show caviar imported snails and such la-de-dahs.

On a recent visit to Paris I introduced a friend to cooked snails in the shell at L'Escargot, the famous snail cafe where the little black aproned wine waiter resembling Chaplin is always so gravely cock-eyed. Afterward he confessed feeding the snails surreptitiously to my dog under the table.

The president of a great steel company says: "To advance in any of life's endeavors it is necessary both to study and to think. Achievement is possible to those who have the initiative and determination to equip themselves with knowledge. This requires application and study continued beyond the period of formal school and college courses. But it brings practical results in cultural as well as vocational accomplishment."

Note especially that advancement along your line calls for study beyond the period of school and college. The man who no longer thinks he has to study his trade or his job, is not the one that knows it all. He is the one who is so ignorant that he doesn't realize how little he knows.

Ege, chairman of the art division of the Senior Teachers' College, Cleveland, when members of the Art Club met last night at the home of Mrs. W. P. Scobeln, Bellefontaine-av. Patronesses of the club were guests. Mr. Ege, who was presented by Mrs. E. H. Cowan, president of the club, told the story of the origin of our own alphabet and also interpreted the alphabets of other languages.

"The Ancient Phoenicians," he stated, "were the Yankees of the Old World and developed many things. Their development of the alphabet is the greatest discovery in the history of mankind because it has simplified writing." Mr. Ege had a number of rare volumes, among them several illuminated manuscripts, the perusal of which afforded an entertaining hour following the address.

CHAPTER 37

"WHY, I recall once," continued the Sheriff, 'havin' to take a young feller from this country down to San Quentin to get hung for a murder. He'd bushwhacked his own uncle in a draw, the uncle being the one he suspected of havin' bushwhacked his brother—which I reckon he was right at that.

"Well, I'd known the boy since he was a pup, and it didn't seem right to take him down on the train, with handcuffs and leg-irons on him, and every citizen from Dick, and Harry starin' at the boy. So I allowed I'd motor him down in my official car, figurin' we'd enjoy that one last ride—maybe.

"Well, we started, and presently he complained about the hardware I'd put on him, so I unlocked it and threw it back in the tonneau, and we drove along pleasant and neighborly, until passin' through a patch of live-oaks, he saw a gray squirrel run up a tree. He got me to stop the car.

"'Sheriff Bentley, sir,' he says, 'just to show you I'm not scairt, an' that I ain't always nervous, I'll bet you $50 I have in my pocket, and which I don't figure on gettin' to spend anyhow, I can take your gun and shoot the head off'n that squirrel from here.'

"I looked. It was a good 50 yards, and I figured he couldn't make the grade. 'You're on, son,' I says, and handed him my gun, which he immediately pokes into my ribs.

"'Now then, Sheriff,' he says, 'I'm sorry to say you're too trustin' for a peace officer. Gettin' hung don't appeal to me none whatever, so I reckon you'll just naturally have to get out and walk. I'm goin' to borrow your car and try to make my getaway. I'm beggin' I won't have to kill you, but if you object there ain't no other course open to me.'

"I looked at the boy," continued the sheriff, "and I seen he meant business. I wasn't worried, though, because I wasn't quite the fool sheriff he thought I was. I had a little short .38 gun in a holster inside the band o' my britches, and of course the minute he turned his back on me to drive off I'd have potted him. But I didn't want to do that, Ranger. He was a nice boy. He had nice folks. So I just pushed the muzzle of the gun away from me and says to him:

"'Now, son, you listen to me a minute. You lied to me to get my gun. You played a low-down trick on me, after I'd trusted you. I can understand how come you bumped your uncle off, which he was a low-flung old razorback anyhow, but how you can swindle a neighbor treats me cruel.'

"'Here I've took the irons off'n you and I'm ridin' you to your death in my own car, just to save you from a lot of curious people, and yet you pull a trick like this on me. How'm I ever goin' to explain how I lost a prisoner with handcuffs and leg-irons on him? Why, folks'll say I connived to let you go, and I'll be disgraced. The county board of supervisors'll meet and declare my office vacant, and all my life folks in my own country'll be pointin' the finger o' scorn at me. Taint a square deal, son, so you gimme back that pistol or stick to your original proposition, and shoot that squirrel.'

"'Nothin' doin',' he says. But, Lordy, how wild his eyes was lookin'!

"'Then you shoot me through the head, son, 'cause I won't suffer you. I says because I'd rather be dead than disgraced.'

He gives a big sigh and hands me the gun, but first. 'Reckon I don't want to kill nobody without cause,' he says quiet-like. 'Reckon, too, that squirrel's entitled to life, liberty, and the pursuit of acorns. I'm sorry. Let's be gettin' along.' Arm he reaches back into the tonneau for the cuffs and leg-irons, figurin' I'd make him wear them now. But I knew better'n that. Why, we stopped at the hotel at Sacramento that night and he was as free as air. We went to the theater together, and the next morning we strolled over to the governor's office together.

"He waited outside in the secretary's office while I was conferin' with the governor, and then the governor come out with me and looked the boy over. The result is he agreed with me the feller was too fundamentally sound to hang, so he commuted his sentence to life imprisonment, and in two years he pardoned the boy. I told the governor the boy's uncle was no good and wanted killin', and he took my word for it."

Garland looked at the sheriff with new interest. Here was a plain man with an astounding natural understanding of human psychology and the wit to apply it. "I used to be a lawyer, Sheriff," he said quietly, "not a well-known one, but one with a knowledge of the law; and if you'll help me, Bob Mason will never go back to San Quentin. I'll defend him to the last limit of legal intrigue and chicanery, and I'm here to tell you that any cow-country district attorney that opposes me will have to step lively to get a verdict. I still have my sheepskin entitling me to practice law in this state."

"The sheriff reached over his great hand silently. "You're a sight better'n those that talk about you, son," he said. "You're right. We'll never let that boy go back to San Quentin. Some day next week I'm goin' to act on Uncle Charley's tip and scrape the bottom of every well in Honey Valley for those empty cartridge shells and that pistol.

"Then I'm going to find Bob Mason's wife and jump the truth out of her when she sees those empty shells and the rusty pistol. If she won't admit it and I can't read the number on the gun, we've got to trace that minin' engineer's career every place he's ever lived, examine the records of all the hardware stores and see if we can connect him up with the ownership of such a gun.

"Then, with a claim of new evidence, we appeal the case, the Supreme Court maybe orders a new trial, I testify to finding the gun and cartridges, and prove the deceased did once own such a gun; then we spill Uncle Charley's dyin' tale, raise a reasonable doubt in the minds of the jurors and get a verdict of acquittal. The jury'll be hand-picked this time, and that'll be your job. They'll figure Bob has suffered enough, anyhow, and turn him loose."

"That is a reasonable hypothesis, Sheriff," Garland agreed.

"Reasonable? Why, it's sound as a $20 gold piece, and if it ain't we'll make it so. Let me tell you something, young feller. Whenever I tackle a job I tackle it with a winnin' spirit, no matter how impossible it appears, and it'd surprise you the number o' times I win out. Take, for instance that boy I was takin' down to get hung. I knew he oughtn't to swing, but do you think I wasted any time tryin' to sell the governor that philanthropic idear? Nary bit. I'm the Republican county committeeman for our county; nobody was fool enough to run against me in the last election, on account of me bein' satisfactory to Siskiyou County and to hell with political parties.

"I got political power in my county and the governor knew it. So I just told him I was goin' set on carryin' this boy and I would remember the favor at the next general election if so be he could see his way clear to be kind, and if he couldn't I'd remember it anyhow! I put it all on a personal basis, and that's what I'm goin' to do in the case of Bob Mason."

"You're a lot better than those that talk about you," Garland assured him, returning the sheriff's rough compliment. "Well, you'd better get down off Rogue while you have daylight. I shall remain here to help Monica with Bob and the baby, although you needn't mention that fact to the chief ranger as you pass headquarters. The Forest Service telephone lines are down, and if he cannot communicate with me he'll assume I'm on the job. What he doesn't know will not worry him."

Ten minutes later Sheriff Bentley mounted the ranger's horse and rode away. Near the base mountain pine down in the meadows he found his wretched Baldy grazing. Rainwater collecting in little depressions had furnished him with drink. He was stiff and sore, but not disabled although to the practiced eye of the sheriff it was apparent that he had lost weight.

His thick hide had resisted the burns rather well, however, and after making a careful examination his owner rode on, satisfied that a week in that green meadow was the best thing he could prescribe for the jaded animal.

The saddle, bridle, and blanket he packed up in the mountain-sine until he could pick them up on his return trip. He knew that his posse—if they had not, indeed, already done so—would see Baldy in the meadows on their way out of the San Dimas, recognize him and report his presence to his owners; but Bentley would have a story to account for the animal's condition. What the posse did not know was that Bob Mason was responsible for it, and therein the gods had been kind to Sheriff Bentley. He decided he had got out of a disagreeable situation with his reputation unsullied and his honor unstained.

Jubilee's Pardner

A Story of Boyhood Adventure

BY JUDD M. LEWIS

It didn't rain today either, so maybe summer will come ahead of time. All I had got the dummed brutes milked and had fed Jubilee and fed my own face and had got outside with the lunch we went over to the brookyard and sat around on the woodpile. We made it up that when we are men we will get on the schoolboard and we will fix it so that school will let out as soon as good ball playing weather begins, and not start till after foot ball is all over. Then the Lost Bag of Tripe said we oughtn't to have to go to school while there is good claying and skating, and then someone kicked the end of a piece of four foot wood in the pile we was setting on, and the whole pile sort of dissolved and part of it went into the mudhole and left him setting on the bank with his feet in the water. So we all helped him to make a fire to dry his shoes and stockings and Barty dropped one of the Lost Bag of Tripe's stockings in the fire, but it was too wet to burn. Then we all went to school and left the Lost Bag of Tripe setting there drying his shoes.

When I went upstairs in the school when the bell had rang there was a May basket on Younisses desk and it was the basket I started to gather for her, and she looked at me offal sweet. I looked around at Feedle and she was looking crosseyed and her mouth hanging open like she didn't have sense enough to shut it. I hate made it up that I will not do anything to her for making me dive out of my pants last Saturday. But it was a good thing I wasn't diving into a net, or anything but water, because a net is not much good to a fella that has lost his clothes. Everyone was looking at my desk and at me, and I bet the fellas was wishing they were me and the girls wishing they were Younise, and I was feeling kinda proud. Then the teacher said, "Thomas Aristides, won't you come up on the platform and recite, 'I'm to be queen of the May, mother, I'm to be queen of the May,' for the students?" I was so surprized at first that I didn't know what to say, and then I kinda stuttered and told her I didn't know the words to it. Then she said she would just as soon have me come up and hum it, and then I knew she was spoofing me, so I went up to the platform and made a bow to her and one to the class and began to hum, "The old gray mare, she ain't what she used to be," so loud that I bet the other rooms heard me, and everyone roared. The teacher smiled and said I might remain in at recess. When a fella munkeys with a teacher he loses even when he wins.

In this country there are undoubtedly 20,000,000 men who don't want to be President. This makes it a trifle easier for the 20,000,000 others.

Madge Knits the Past With Her Father

ALLEN DRAKE looked keenly at my father as the older man warned him that he car in which they had come to the farmhouse must be hidden instantly.

"All right I say," he answered. "But you must lie down first."

"Couch just a few steps away in the library," Lillian said, and in another minute my father had been half lifted, half led into the room and made comfortable on the couch.

"Stay with him, Madge," Lillian said, "and I'll get Jim for Allen."

My father lay with closed eyes until they had gone. Then he opened them and all the great love which is his for me shone out of them.

"Darling girl!" he said. "This sight of you pays for everything. I was afraid—"

He checked himself but I knew instinctively what the rest of sentence was. He had feared that this mysterious journey of his would end in another voyage into the infinite without his seeing me again.

With a sudden little dread clutching at my heart, I wondered if it would have been better for his happiness if he had not come back. He had gone away in answer to a mysterious summons before Grace Draper's treachery and suicide had set a gulf of bitterness between Dicky and me. To a degree unusual even with doting parents, my father's happiness was wrapped up in me, because of his remorse for his desertion of my mother when I was four years old, and his subsequent separation from me during all the years of my childhood and girlhood. Indeed, it was not until after my marriage, that my father, known to Broadway as "The Quester," because of his mysterious waiting watchful attitude in every public place, as if he expected some time to see a long missing face, finally recognized me because of my resemblance to my mother.

I had forgiven him because of my mother's dying request that I should do so if he ever found me, and his devotion to me since that time had been a marvelous thing. His affection for Dicky was strong, and I knew that he was contented in the thought that my marriage was happier than that of the average woman. If he should find out the truth I made a quick, fierce, little vow to myself that I would guard every action, every word, all the tide of happy wife during every minute of my father's stay.

"You mustn't talk," I told him, my arms clasping him closely. "Just rest. You're with me, now, dearest, and I'm going to take care of you until you're well and strong again."

Tenderly he drew my face down to his and kissed it.

"Always my Margaret," he said fondly, and then he lay quietly, his head pillowed against my arm. But his eyes were open, watchful and I guessed that he was listening for any possible disturbance from outside.

It was but a few minutes, however, before Allen Drake and Lillian appeared. From under my eyelashes I shot a keen glance at my friend and saw that though her face held its usual inscrutability there were circles around her mouth the deep lines which only strong excitement brings. Allen Drake had found time to tell her of their reason for coming to the farmhouse with such secrecy, I was sure of that.

"Couldn't be better, Chief!" Allen Drake said cheerily. "Car is in the barn completely hidden under the hay and Jim has sworn not to open that section of the barn unless one of us is with him. So you can go to sleep with a mind at rest. I am sure nobody but ourselves knows that we are here."

But during the next hour while we were sewing that the travelers were comfortably settled in their rooms and covering them a hot supper, I could not get out of my mind the query that later in the day Lillian had put to me:

"Do you suppose that those Transcanicus in the shack could have seen Father and Mr. Drake come to the farmhouse?"

Baseball Season Will Start in Marion Park On Sunday

Eagles Will Face Kibler Team of Springfield In Initial Diamond Contest

Heavy Hitting Nine in Prospect for Local Fans; Manager Francis Bacon Working on Starting Lineup; New Blood Is Promised

The baseball season in Marion will be ushered in Sunday afternoon at Lincoln Park when the Eagles team of this city meets the Kibler Clothiers of Springfield.

Manager Francis Bacon of the local team is at the present time getting his starting line-up arranged for the contest. A number of the old Eagle stars will be back in the game with some new blood added.

Both teams will face each other with but two practice sessions so far this year. Rain, snow and cold has held back teams in this section of the state.

Those fans who witnessed the Eagle workout at Lincoln Park Sunday will agree that prospects for a heavy hitting team are very good. In spite of the fact that the left field fence has been moved back and a number of balls were hit into the jungles beyond.

A number of the best teams in this section of the state are being booked this year for the local diamond. The Akron Firestones and Homestead Grays have already been signed up and letters seeking contracts with other outfits have been sent out.

Many people, two hours after eating, suffer indigestion as they call it. It is usually excess acid. Correct it with an alkali. The best way, the quick, harmless and efficient way, is Phillips' Milk of Magnesia. It has remained for 60 years the standard with physicians. One spoonful in water neutralizes many times its volume in stomach acids, and at once. The symptoms disappear in five minutes.

You will never use crude methods when you know this better method. And you will never suffer from excess acid when you prove out this easy relief. Please do that—for your own sake—now.

Be sure to get the genuine Phillips' Milk of Magnesia prescribed by physicians for 50 years in correcting excess acids. 25c and 50c a bottle—any drug store.

TOM TERMS

New York, May 1—Tom Heeney, who arrived from Europe yesterday, started light training today in preparation for his heavyweight title bout with Gene Tunney here in July. The New Zealander weighs 212 pounds.

HASKELL INDIAN LASTS JUST TWO MINUTES IN RING WITH PORAT

"Big Chief" Roebuck Fails To Uphold Traditions of Tribe

Chicago, May 1—If "Big Chief" Teddy Roebuck, the 250-pound Haskell Indian, is ever coaxed back into the same ring with Otto Von Porat, the Norwegian heavyweight, the giant Redmann probably will insist on taking along his bow and arrow and at least one first class tomahawk.

It took the Norwegian knockout artist exactly two minutes and seven seconds of the first round last night to hammer down the huge bulk of Roebuck in what was to have been the 10-round banner event of Promoter Jim Mullen's Coliseum show. Ten thousand spectators who jammed the ancient structure to the rafters went wild at the gory exhibition.

The Big Chief was a badly routed tribesman as he wobbled his huge frame to his corner after getting off the floor unaided. He arose a second after the 10 count had been called and protested to Referee Purdy that he had not heard the count. Many in the house were willing to believe him.

Von Porat, weighing 188 pounds, but a midget by comparison, began cautiously. For a minute and a half he allowed the Indian to do the leading. Finally he cut loose with a left to the jaw and followed with a right cross to the same spot. Roebuck quaked and dropped. But he got up at the count of three. The Norwegian followed up his advantage and an instant later another dose of the same poison had the Goliath stretched on the canvas for the final count.

HAS COLD

Helen Wills Forced To Cancel German Matches

PARIS, May 1—Because of a severe cold, Miss Helen Wills, the American net star today cancelled her scheduled matches in Berlin with the best women players in Germany.

In cancelling the German engagements Miss Wills expressed deep regrets but stated that her doctors feared "the bronchial trouble from which she was suffering might develop into pneumonia."

The German matches were scheduled to precede the French and English engagements.

DUE IN NEW YORK

New York, May 1—Lightweight champion Sammy Mandell is due in New York today to start training for a defense of his title against Jimmy McLarnin, who conquered Sid Terris in one round. Mandell and McLarnin meet over the fifteen-round route at the Polo Grounds May 17.

If small town visitors to the city would only attend a classical concert, listen to a scientific lecture, visit the library and the art gallery they might not think "cities are so wicked."

AFTER DEMPSEY

JACK SHARKEY

NEW YORK, May 1—Emboldened by his master stroke in knocking Jack Delaney out of the heavyweight picture in exactly one minute and 13 seconds, Jack Sharkey today is out a challenge to Jack Dempsey for a return match and labeled the impending title match between Gene Tunney and Tom Heeney as an exhibition between "two second raters. He feels he has regained his old place and intends to keep on fighting until he gets his chance at the title.

Sharkey is sure that Dempsey is coming back for at least one more fight and he wants to get even with the man he calls the "Gold Tiger" who clashed him to pieces in seven rounds last June.

MASONS OF MARION ENTER BALL LEAGUE

Marion Hinklin Named Manager of Team, Meeting Called at Bucyrus

A new recreation ball league with representative teams from Masonic organizations of this section of the state is rapidly taking form and final plans will be considered Wednesday night at Bucyrus.

Last night members of the local Masonic lodge formed a team to cooperate with three others in the league. Marion Hinklin was named manager and will attend the Bucyrus meeting.

Teams that have already entered the league are Crestline, Upper Sandusky and Bucyrus. There is a possibility that Kenton and Delaware will be added later.

Each team, according to present plans, will play one game each week. Every other game will be played on out of town diamonds.

Knockout Comes After One Minute and 13 Seconds of Play; New Peach In Garden

Tex Rickard in Bad Way with Heeney-Tunney Battle as Result of Sensational Victory; Winner Now Big Drawing Card

BY DAVIS J. WALSH

New York, May 1—Tex Rickard found himself this morning, with exactly one [illegible] in his garden of Madison Square, the sowing of seeds for [illegible] weight harvest could accomplish.

In exactly one minute and 13 seconds of play Jack Sharkey knocked Jack Delaney cold last night while a crowded house went berserk. Always a connoisseur of pugilistic art, Rickard picked a most unfortunate moment for this exhibition of [illegible].

For be it known to all those readers that Tomato Hearty, the prominent heavy thing, recently has been declared in on the championship dividend with Tunney on July and here we have this Sharkey guy going on less than a round what Heeney failed to do in 15. Tomato, in fact, didn't even have Delaney on the floor or hear it, unless you count the soles of his feet. Sharkey not only has all there times in the first round but kept him there the last time [illegible].

Not Obliging

Had Sharkey been obliging sort, he would have turned in the performance two months ago and then all of Professor Rickard's plans would have gone through exactly according to script. But he didn't, so the professor got very short and named Heeney as the challenger before further expenses could enter the situation. Upon which the professor [illegible] no further reason for being smart and went right ahead matching Sharkey and Delaney just for the sake of filling an open date and the till.

The result was that with Heeney and Tunney definitely reached for July 26, at the Yankee Stadium, Sharkey was a far better customer than the man who in advance had been declared in on the championship frolic. He was a superior attraction in several respects, the main one being that he scored three knockdowns in one minute last night, which was exactly three more than had been tallied in 32 rounds of previous activity in the heavyweight racket.

Takes Everything

Delaney took everything and gave nothing. He may have struck a blow during the minute and 13 seconds of action, but I doubt it if he did so in anger. The other side by comparison was more like the Sharkey of the early rounds of the Dempsey fight. He went after Delaney from the bell. Throwing right hands with abandon. The crowded rajah had just assumed an expression which seems to imply, "You can't scare me with those kinds," when one of them clipped him behind the ear.

Sharkey rushed to the attack again, swinging lefts and rights to Delaney's head without return. Steadying for a moment he set himself for a right cross. It nipped Delaney's jaw and would have been enough for a knockdown but the sailor added a left hook by way of emphasis. Delaney took a count of nine and came up reeling.

He reeled into a right uppercut and it was all over.

Meantime, a young man by the name of Johnny Risko was introduced from the ring last night. He was the man who beat Sharkey out of a decision only six weeks ago. So what does that make him? Really, Wilmeding, you ask the darndest questions.
